THE STORY OF ZARAH LEANDER"*THURSDAY, MARCH 13

The question on everyone's mind is, "What's a nice Jewish girl doing in a show about Hitler's favorite singer?" The answer must be, "Who else but this actress/chanteuse can bring the audience to its feet with her stunning voice and passionate, dramatic performance?" Born in Stockholm, Olivia Stevens' talent has been much appreciated in the United States. Pleasure and Peril had its debut at Helen's in New York in May 2007 and received glowing reviews from both patrons and critics: "Olivia Stevens gives ample evidence of the talent that drew so many to Leander, while at the same time, and to Stevens' credit, she doesn't gloss over the darker aspects of Leander's life and career" – Roy Sander, Back Stage and Citysearch. Olivia's performance as Sally Bowles in the European tour of Cabaret has been compared to Liza Minelli's ("... sings explosively like a young Liza Minelli") and her portrayal of Anita in West Side Story was rated "Gripping... she's convincing both in tantalizing joy as well as the deepest grief" – Daily News.
